- 13 Originally published in L.II:pl.XXIX.21 as from 'Temple Area'. Excavation details written on object are as follows: D 100 Houses. This suggests that the object actually came from Area 100 Houses.
- 14 Originally attributed to intrusive Roman / Byzantine burials in Tomb 106 (see L.III Text pp.181, 187). However, evidence from a well-dated Iron Age hoard from Tel Miqne, published in 1998, which includes an earring of similar shape (in silver), suggests that this example is also likely to be of Iron Age date. For further details see Golani and Sass 1998:pp. 57–81; see in particular p.63 and fig.10.4.

However, evidence from a well-dated Iron Age hoard from Tel Miqne, published in 1998, which includes a silver earring very similar to this example, suggests that it too is likely to be of Iron Age date. - 31 Material of this scarab incorrectly listed as glass in L.IV: pl.54.22.
- 32 The stone object and animal remains listed below were all found in the 'circular repository containing Middle and Late Bronze Age sherds' to the east of Room A and mentioned in L.III:Text pp.203–204 and fig.25.
- 33 Originally published as silver, but the material was identified as gilded silver? or more probably gold / electrum during conservation treatment in the British Museum in 1999.

- 46 Field number for this object incorrectly published as 4805 in L.III:pl.55.45.
- 47 Published as Aegis of Bastet, but has cow horns and disc which are attributes of Hathor.
- 48 Fragment is apparently marked with field number 4771 which appears to have been crossed out in pencil. This field number is problematic as it refers to two Iron Age jugs from Tomb 218. It is possible that the excavation details were wrongly marked on this object and at present its correct locus and / or field number is not certain.
- 49 Excavation details written on this object are as follows: D 218 CO, 4771. This is problematic as field number 4771 refers to two Iron Age jugs from Tomb 218. There appears to be remains of staining or glue on the interior of the fragment from an original paper label? which has now disappeared and probably had the correct excavation details. At present it is not possible to be certain of the correct locus and / or field number for this object.
- 50 Inscription transliteration given here follows recent account by Barkay and Vaughn. See Barkay and Vaughn 2004: p.2163, no.34.

- 62 Decoration revealed during conservation treatment in the British Museum in 2000 and is unpublished.
- 63 Originally published as silver, gilding revealed during conservation treatment in the British Museum in 1997.
- 64 This was originally published in L.III:pl.57.14 as a steatite seal in bronze mount with illegible Hebrew inscription. Cleaning and treatment in the Department of Conservation, British Museum in April 2000 has shown the seal to be made completely of bronze and has clearly revealed the letters of the inscription. A note on the seal and inscription is currently in preparation.
- 65 Field number for this object incorrectly published as 1771 in notes for L.IV:pl.78.805.
- 66 Field number for this object incorrectly published as 1826 in notes for L.IV:pl.78.804.
- 67 This fragment is published as from Area 1500 and without a field number in notes for L.IV:pl.13.93. The field number and context details presented here are taken from unpublished information available in the Lachish excavation archive.
- 68 As n.67.
- 69 Field number for this object incorrectly published as 2133 in notes for L.IV:pl.77.766.
- 70 Field number for this object incorrectly published as 2132 in notes for L.IV:pl.77.767.
- 71 Published as Cypriot White Shaved juglet, but this is unlikely as vessel is wheel-made of local fabric with handle originally attached to shoulder on exterior, not pushed through body as shown in type drawing L.IV:pl.79.821.
- 72 As n.1: List no. C-31, p.1419.
- 73 As n.1: List no. C-25, p.1412.
- 74 As n.53: List no. C-29, p.1419, fig.22.19:3.
- 75 As n.1: List no. C-53, p.1421.
- 76 Field number incorrectly published as 3222 in L.III:pl.73.28.
- 77 Although this bowl is published in L.IV:pl.71.L.II:146 as a Late Bronze Age type, the shape does not closely resemble the type drawing or Late Bronze Age pottery in general. It does show some similarities with its companion bowl from this locus (FN6013) which may be of a much later date (possibly Late Hellenistic?).
- 78 This jug was originally published in L.IV:pl.81.878 as 'Imitation Base Ring'. Examination in the Department of Scientific Research, British Museum in 1993 has shown that the vessel is clearly hand made and that the handle was pushed through the wall of the body in typical Cypriot fashion. Visual examination of the fabric and painted decoration also suggests a Cypriot origin.

Section I: The Cemeteries

- 81 As n.i: List no. C-8I, p.1422.
- 82 For drawings and details of petrographic analysis of the following sherds: (bowl) 2277; (cooking pots) 2082–2085, see Magrill and Middleton 2004: Table 36.1 and figs.36.1 and 36.2.
- 83 For drawings and details of petrographic analysis of the following sherds: (bowls) 2200, 2205–2206, 2218; (cooking pots) 2188–2190, 2291; (storage jar) 2192, see Magrill and Middleton 2004: Table 36.1 and fig.36.1.
- 84 This object was originally published in L.IV:pl.49.12 as basalt. However, petrographic analysis carried out in the Department of Scientific Research, British Museum in 1999 indicates that the stone is not basalt but amphibole-rich metamorphosed basic igneous rock. For a recent discussion of the use of this object see Magrill and Middleton 2004: pp.2539–2542, fig.36.30.
- 85 Field number for this object incorrectly published as 6090 in L.III:pl.35.4I.
- 86 As n.i: List no. C-5, p.141I.
- 87 This bead, although published as ‘paste’, is clearly glass and is listed as such in the unpublished site records for Cave 6009. This context is published in L.IV Text p.297 as Early Bronze Age, but unpublished information from the site records indicates that later material, including mixed sherds of Late Bronze Age, Iron Age and Roman date, were found outside the cave. The bead appears similar to Late Bronze Age examples from Lachish and it seems unlikely that it is of Early Bronze Age date as the publication implies.
- 88 This bowl is incorrectly published as coming from Tomb 521 in L.III:pl.72.1I.
